Jeanne Dixon's Winter Forecast

January 1st, 1995: Nome, 78°; Albany, -47°

Albania (WHN) Put aside the wolly catapelliers, .....etc., Jeanne Dixon has pronosticat-ed.

In an exclusive WHN seance, Ms. Dixon has forseen the winter weather for Albania, and boy is it forsaken. Among the more startling visions is that Nome, Alaska will have a milder than normal winter with an average high in January of 78° F. In contrast, Ms. Dixon states that the Albanian winter will be perfect for such classic winter sports as ice hockey, sledding, snow shovelling, and the ever popular freezing of balls off of brass monkeys. Ms. Dixon further predicts that Albanians will excel at the latter sport.

WHN Helpful Hints On How To Survive The Harsh Albanian Winter

As a public service to our loyal readers (and to make sure we receive those subscriptions next summer), the WHN has enlisted the aid of famed artic explorer Commodore William Perry to compile a list of strategies to avoid frostbite, hypothermia, and the dreaded chaffed bun syndrome.

1. Move to Florida, or
2. Move to Arizonia, or
3. Move to Hawaii, or
4. Move to Grenada, or
6. If you can move, quit your job and stay inside, or
7. If you need money (hence, a job) send your spouse and children to work and you stay at home, or
8. If YOU have to work,
